Funeral Services For Mrs. A. Erickson

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. A. Erickson, who passed away very suddenly last Friday evening, were held in the 2nd Ward Church Wednesday afternoon, with Bishop J. H. Walker in charge and a large congregation present. A lovely array of floral offerings covered a beautiful casket and resplendent, and a spirit of deep respect and sympathy was felt for one who had devoted so many years of her life in the service of her fellowmen.

The opening prayer was offered by Chas. B. Strong and the benediction pronounced by Joseph Nilsson.

The first speaker was Elder H. S. Allen, President of Taylor Stake for years, who spoke of his forty years acquaintance with the deceased, and the fact that in all the years she served as Chorister and Organist in the auxiliary organizations of the Stake she was always dependable, reliable and valiant.

Elder Jos. McLean sang "The Last Chord."

Pres. M. T. King referred to his boyhood days when he, with Octave Ursenbach, George Laycock, and others, had played in an orchestra organized by deceased. He spoke of her fine temperament and her ability, and read from Ezekiel on the Resurrection.

"Crossing the Bar," was rendered as a special request by Frank R. Taylor and Co. and before singing, Frank Taylor paid tribute to the fine atmosphere that was always present in the Erickson home, and of his personal appreciation of the fine life of deceased.

Elder J. W. Evans spoke of the easy passing of deceased, and of her meeting with her waiting husband in the spirit world. He read a poem and gave a definition of "success" and said that deceased had achieved success in a marked degree.

Bishop Walker thanked all who had assisted in the services, and expressed his appreciation of the deceased and her fine family. He spoke of the many gatherings of boys and girls in their home for musical evenings and of the good influence deceased had exercised on the boys and girls she came in contact with.

A large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where interment was made by the side of her husband.

Mrs. Erickson passed away very suddenly last Friday evening. She had been in the garden with Mrs. Genevieve Hawkins, and was walking toward the house when she pitched forward on her face, unconscious. Mrs. Hawkins and Miss Ruth Kimball carried her into the house and the Doctor called. He pronounced it as a stroke, centering in the back of her neck and she passed away about half an hour after the first attack without regaining consciousness.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family in their sorrow. Living children are Mrs. D. A. Bennett Raymond, Bishop L. Erickson of Stirling, Allan Erickson residing Elder in Wrentham, and two daughters, Daisy and Ina, living in Utah, the latter of whom, Mrs. Ina Olsen was here for her mother's funeral.

Mrs. Leona Anderson and two daughters, Virginia and Lily are visiting with Mrs. Anderson's father, Chas. B. Strong for a month. The Anderson family lives in Toole, Utah.

HALT THE SABOTAGE OF OUR WAR EFFORT

October 6th to 12th was set aside this year as Fire Prevention Week in Canada.

The object, as usual, is to focus attention on the necessity of doing everything humanly possible to prevent destruction of life and property by fire.

With Canada at war the occasion offers a special challenge to every citizen.

Modern war is total war. It is fought with the entire economic resources of a country just as much as with shells and airplanes. It is fought on the farms and in the factories of the country. The nation's capacity to produce munitions of war will be the decisive factor in the conflict.

Anything that weakens this capacity is as much a loss as the capture of a position by the enemy.

Like sabotage, fire is a destructive agent which may serve as we would against sabotage, accordingly, patriotism demands that everyone guard against fire and treason.

It does not matter whether a fire in a munitions plant, airplane factory or flour mill is caused by a flash bomb or a match carelessly thrown into a pile of rubbish. A halt in production is a blow at Canada's war effort and a score for Hitler.

The accidental fire does just exactly what Nazi airmen are doing by dropping incendiary bombs on London.

Canadian property destroyed by fire in 1939 was worth $24.6 millions. This is a per capita loss of $2.18 compared with 28 cents in Italy and 16 cents in Germany, according to the latest figures available.

Reduction of the fire loss will put the Dominion on more even terms.

Fire prevention in the coming months therefore is more than a necessity of good business. It is an important factor in the struggle for self preservation.

Clean premises, adequate fire fighting equipment and constant vigilance by employer, employee and householder against fire are all elements in Canada's war effort.—Financial Post.

Red Cross Meeting Tonight

A Red Cross meeting will be held in the Town Hall Friday evening at 8 p.m. and everyone is urged to be present. The campaign for $5,000,000 for Red Cross is now under way across Canada. This meeting is for the purpose of organizing to put over the campaign in Raymond and district and to raise our share of this fund. Volunteer workers will be needed and districts assigned, and this work will be taken care of at this meeting.

Newspaper reports state that over $4,000,000 has already been subscribed, many provinces having already finished their drive. Alberta's campaign commenced Monday and will continue until November 15th. Come out Friday night, and DO YOUR PART.

Why Britain Will Win

(By Arthur Wauters)
famous Belgian statesman and writer

M. Wauters has had a remarkable career. He volunteered in the last war and won great military distinction in the Belgian Army. Since that time he has gained many academic honours and become a prominent figure in Belgian politics. He is a Professor of Brussels University and a member of the Belgian Colonial Institute. He has travelled extensively in Belgian Congo and written a number of books on Colonial questions.

He is a member of the Belgian Chamber of Deputies and has held a number of ministerial posts. He was for a long time political editor of the great Belgian newspaper, "Le Peuple."

Hitler's military victories achieved, for a time, a double psychological result. The German people were filled with faith in a magician who was re-shaping Europe, as though invested with a mysterious power. On the other hand, some superficial neutral onlookers began to be convinced of the invincibility of Nazi Germany.

The Allies, perhaps unwittingly, contributed to establishing this childish belief by complacent description of the war methods of the German armies in the first period of the war. They did it, of course, with the praiseworthy object of stimulating the will of resistance and readiness of sacrifice of the democratic masses.

The psychological effect of the German successes has been increased in geometrical progression. Hitler has kept his promises of victory with mathematical precision. He had announced that he would be in Paris on June 15. He was there.

But it may be doubted whether the process of collective bewitchment will have a lasting effect.

Hitler announced that he would be in London on August 19. He failed to keep the appointment.

He himself thus furnished the proof of the vanity of some of his boasts. Those who had been intoxicated by German propaganda are baffled. They are beginning to make historical comparisons. There is no need to go back very far in time. Kaiser, Wilhelm's Germany collapsed almost immediately after achieving indisputable military triumphs.

The Fuehrer's thirst for conquest is now encountering some obstacles. The time for easy successes is past.

In the neutral country which I left for London a month ago, the most absurd stories found credence in defiance of all human intelligence. It was whispered that Britain's fate would be sealed within three weeks or that 45 millions of starving and terrorised Britons were spending their lives queuing up for a problematic crust of bread in the daytime, and with collective lamentation in the underground shelters at night. Britain, it was said, was no more than a heap of ruins. The electric power stations were destroyed, the largest city in the world was plunged in darkness. Transport was paralysed. A desperate people was in revolt against its leaders. The Empire was collapsing.

I am writing these lines in London where the roar of the greatest air battles in history reaches our ears. The German planes are being brought down by the magnificent pilots of the Royal Air Force at the rate of five to one and some times of one a minute. The power of the Empire is unimpaired. In spite of the self-styled German "blockade," millions of tons of merchandise reach British ports week after week.

The shops are overflowing with goods. There is a certain amount of rationing, but it does not interfere with anybody's good supply, nor does it diminish any workman's productive capacity. Astonishing quantities of produce are accessible to all: coffee, oranges, bananas, grape fruit, tropical nuts, pepper, tobacco, olives, and what not.

There is something disconcerting about the calm and coolness of this great people. It is due neither to indifference nor to passivity. With it the sense of national co-operation reaches a prodigious degree. Each one is mobilised either organically or morally. Each is doing his work with orderliness, calm and discipline. There is neither haste nor precipitation nor panic. Everyone applies rules strictly and encourages every else to do likewise. Vigilance never relaxes. Britain is not invaded, but everyone behaves as though invasion might come at any moment. This people will in no circumstances be taken by surprise.

A sporting people, the British are counting the blows and taking stock impartially of their reverses and failings, not to be disheartened by them, but to correct them. Nothing is left to chance or to improvisation.

Britain gives the impression of a powerful up to date machine, whose flawless, well oiled march proceeds noiselessly and without hitch. Everyone knows what he has to do. And he, or she, will do it at the right time.

There is complete, trusting and eager co-operation between the public and the authorities. German propaganda will not change this nor diminish in the least the calm and self-conscious force of this great free people.

It is a significant fact that in spite of ephemeral triumphs, the German people need to be drugged by false news. In Britain German communiques are published daily in full. Anyone can listen freely to Nazi broadcasts, if he happens to want to do so.

The democratic liberties are fully respected. The Press comments on Government action with a surprising frankness. Parliament, whose powers are supreme, continue to sit whenever there is business to transact.

These things are, to my mind one of the essential guarantees of Britain's coming victory. The officially inspired optimism of the countries living under a system of censorship lull the fighting spirit of the citizens to sleep. A flood of reassuring but often unfounded statements act like chloroform upon them.

The British people are conscious of the fact that they have never been invaded for the last 900 years. They are not oblivious to the unsuccessful attempts made successively by Philip

NEWS NOTES

Heber F. Allen was at the Community Auction Sheep Sale in Cardston on Tuesday.

Newspaper advertisements are worth following closely because they contain news of unusual importance to every shopper.

Mrs. D. H. Ellison of Waterton Park was a Raymond visitor the first of the week a guest of her sister, Mrs. Lee Brewerton and other relatives.

Mrs. Marjorie Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bennett and granddaughter of Mrs. A. Erickson of Salt Lake City, was here for Mrs. Erickson's funeral and is visiting with her parents for awhile.

The Book Lover's Score met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Zabriskie Wednesday last week, in their regular meeting. The roll call showed 17 members and four visitors present, the visitors being Mesdames H. S. Taylor and H. Ririe of Magrath, Miss Edna Rolfson and Mrs. A. Roddick of Raymond. Mrs. Taylor gave a very interesting review of the Shakespearean play "Hamlet." A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and a most enjoyable afternoon spent by all present. Mrs. H. M. Witbeck President of the Club was in the chair.

H. Louis XIV and by Napoleon. They know that 200 or 250 ships would be needed to land five divisions. They know that they will never be betrayed by that ally which always keeps faith with them: the sea. They know that their ships are sailing the seven seas and using thousands of ports all the world over, whereas the German and Italian mercantile fleets are confined to coastal traffic in the Baltic and the Adriatic.

They know that in defiance of the furious attacks of the German Luftwaffe, the Royal Air Force is daily delivering its blows on Germany, on Turin on Milan, on Libya, wherever it cares to strike.

They also know that the United States is on their side.

They realise that those who were unable to prevent the heroic rearmament of Dunkirk are now faced with the incomparably more formidable task of attempting the same operation in the opposite direction.

They know that the whole Empire, without exception, constitutes one solid rock.

Nor do they forget that two thirds of the peoples subjected by Germany are not Germans at all, and that the terrible fire of vengeance which is now smouldering in the hearts of the oppressed nations will burst into flame, at the right moment.

As a citizen of an indomitable nation, I know that, in spite of professional traitors and place seekers, the whole of Belgium constitutes a column in the service of democracy and liberty.

The beloved spirits of Cardinal Mercier of Burgomaster Max, of King Albert, of the heroic workers who were deported for refusing to work for the Germans, accompany us in our effort and inspire us with hope.

Britain and with her the permanent values of mankind will triumph.

As this issue of the Recorder goes to press, Southern Alberta's beet harvest, at least in this immediate district, is about 70 per cent. completed. Every day that the weather has permitted, and some days, even before the ground was really dry enough for beets to handle good, digging and topping has been going ahead with all the crew that could be assembled.

Passing some fields during the days that the beets were excessively wet by far the hardest job of the harvest, was knocking enough dirt off the beets to top them, and instead of the usual one bang together, some of the beets were hit three or four times to knock off some of the dirt. We heard of one grower during the wet days who took a load to the scales, and was docked 12 per cent for tare. When he came back for his next load he spread the beets around good with his fork and knocked off enough dirt so that when he went back with the next load the tare was cut down to three per cent. Such are the experiences of beet raising.

The Factory crew at the weighing station and unloading has also been setting new records. Thursday of last week, 782 loads of beets were unloaded during that day over the Factory scales, which at an average of slightly over 4 tons to the load would have made 3,500 tons over the scales for that one day. This did not take into account the numerous loadings that were dumped that day, but only the beets weighed over the two sets of scales at the Factory yards. Possibly even bigger days have been seen since then. With speedy trucks, tractors with large beet boxes piled to a nice peak, and other conveyances, the harvest is being pushed with all speed. It is to be hoped that good weather will continue now until the last of the beets are in, and then one big worry of the beet grower will be over.

It is too early to make an accurate estimate, but from reports from growers of unexpectedly heavy yields, it begins to look as though the total tonnage for the entire beet raising area will go considerably the 300,000 ton mark. A general improvement and increase in average tonnage per acre is being noticed throughout the beet raising area as farmers are profiting by experience of past years and are getting the benefit of better land, richer in plant food and beet methods in planting, irrigating, cultivating and harvesting.

A WORLD AT WAR

As one listens to radio reports and reads of the destruction of life and property in the present almost universal conflict a nausea almost overcomes one thinking of the suffering, the misery, the sorrow and the tremendous loss being heaped upon the peoples of the world, both on our own side and on the side of the enemy. The fact that it cannot be stopped does not minimize the evil effects of the struggle, nor does it assuage the grief of those who are plunged into deepest mourning because of the toll of machine guns, bombs, fire and what not. The bombing of military objectives brought its heavy toll in workmen, nearby buildings, and so on, and then when the bombing spread to schools, hospitals, apartment houses, and private residences the toll in life and heart ache was tremendously increased, and the slaughter still goes on. We clamor for reprisals, we demand payment in kind, and are probably justified in this attitude, and still when people think of the needless murder of men, women and children, in these wholesale bombings and the slaughter that comes with them, what can possibly be gained by such tactics. A million deaths of non-participants will not weaken the enemy one bit. The destruction of such treasures as the London library, St. Paul's cathedral, Buckingham palace and other public buildings with which so much sentiment is connected, is not helping the enemy to win the war, but in these libraries and old buildings are treasures of literature and art, and records that can never be replaced. What can be gained by such tactics? Is it not just as well to let the enemy live, and let us ask for reprisals on the type, to slaughter innocent men, women and children and destroy her art and literary treasure of centuries. Like everyone else, when we hear of victories for our air forces and our sea forces, we rejoice that victory has been ours. Right now, the whole world, generally speaking, is plunged into the conflict. Both sides maintain they are fighting for the right. The Allies seeking to maintain what we have of freedom and democracy and the Axis powers seeking to force on to the world a new order, which they claim will right all the wrongs of the past centuries. We on the side of the Allies claim that the leaders of the Axis powers are insane with the lust for power and dominion. They are so insane that human life means nothing to them, and they order their men out into the very jaws of death in combat, they sacrifice them in training to accomplish that which ordinary tactics cannot do. To meet this move, our own soldiers, seamen and airmen are forced into combat at great odds, and they take chances which place the odds about 100 to 1 against them. Some come out alright, but there is an ever growing list of those who never come back, and added to this list are many, many fathers and mothers, wives and children, and brothers and sisters, who will never get over the wounds and suffering caused by these universal conflicts.

We look to the future with the hope that out of the present struggle will come a new era of brotherhood, understanding and peace. There is no question but what there are many wrongs in the social and economic set up of the world that need righting. The question is, will men and nations be in any better position mentally to right these wrongs after peace is restored than they were in 1918, or will the cessation of war and sacrifice across the face of old Mother Earth, merely be the commencement of bigger preparations for another maelstrom of war and destruction? If we could know that peace, understanding and universal brotherhood would come after the conflict, the goal would be worth the price. It seems though that man is naturally grasping, some what oppressive and a lover of power, and that there are always groups anxious to further their own ends at the expense of their fellowman, and so long as these things exist and flourish, and equity, honesty and true brotherhood are pushed into the background, history seems to point to a continuation of strife, contention, unfair competition, and finally war with all its carnage, suffering and sorrow.

We cannot diminish our efforts. All that we hold dear, all that has been bequeathed us by our noble ancestors is now at stake. These we must maintain. Our pages of history may be covered with blood, heart ache and sorrow, and yet be cause Holy writ has decreed that every man is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, we must fight on against a foe who raises a banner of oppression and tyranny, and we must, in God's good time come off victorious and set up a standard that will permit men to enjoy the freedom and liberty purchased with the blood of their fellowmen and sanctified by the sorrow and heartache of those bereft of husbands, fathers, sons and brothers in the purchase of that liberty we all hope to enjoy.

CROP REPORT

General—The year 1940 goes upon record as a year of good crops in Canada as a whole and as a year of extraordinarily good crops in the Prairie Provinces, where the wheat yield is the second largest in history and may prove, when returns are complete, to be actually the largest. To this general picture there have been local exceptions, certain crops in Ontario having been adversely affected by cold, wet weather, and certain crops in British Columbia by shortage of moisture during the growing season. For the Prairie Provinces preliminary estimates place this year's total wheat crop as slightly below that of the record production of 1928. The grain is generally high grade. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates wheat production of the three Prairie Provinces at 534,000,000 bushels which is 71,481,000 bushels larger than the third estimate of last year's crop and compares with a ten-year average of 307,013,000 bushels. The estimated average wheat yields by Provinces follow: Manitoba 20.2 bushels, Saskatchewan 16.7 bushels, Alberta 23.4 bushels. The 1940 wheat acreage in the Prairie Provinces, officially estimated at 27,750,000 acres, is the largest on record and is more than 1,900,000 acres in 1939 and winter feed supplies are generally sufficient. Production of oats is estimated at 251,500,000 bushels and of barley at 89,000,000 bushels. Threshing is virtually finished in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In Alberta operations have been delayed by frequent rains, but threshing is now about 75 p.c. completed. Wheat marketings have been affected by governmental restrictions but from August 1st to October 3rd deliveries by farmers to country elevators totalled 156,724,000 bushels, compared with 259,198,000 bushels in the same period last year. In Quebec Province well up to average late roots, except potatoes, are promising, but spring grains roots, apples, small fruits, tobacco and maple products. In Ontario the hay crop was heavy, fall wheat a good yield, and were damaged by wet weather at harvesting, small fruits were plentiful, but the yields of most tree fruits as well as of corn and tobacco, were substantially below average. In the Maritime Provinces a fair to average harvest of all the main staples is generally indicated, with the exception that apples will be a light crop, owing to extensive damage by storms. In British Columbia the hay crop was heavy, yields of tree fruits good and the crop of tomatoes yields are reported of hay, grain a record one, slightly below average were the grain, root and vegetable crops.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Seeding commenced about mid April, but snow and rains delayed the completion of operations until the end of May. The season opened with sufficient moisture to insure germination, but subsoil reserves were low over most of Saskatchewan and Manitoba. A period of cool weather in early June, accompanied by generous rains, promoted rooting and at the end of the month most districts showed normal development. Rising temperatures in July stimulated growth and by the first week of the month a large percentage of the wheat was in the shot blade. Excessive temperatures were followed by rains and showers which modified the damaging effects of the extreme heat. In several sections the July rains were the best in many years. In northern and western Manitoba, east central, central and parts of southern and northern Saskatchewan moisture was deficient and stubble crops suffered severely from heat, but crops on summer fallowed land stood up well. Rainfall in August followed by a heat wave, hastened ripening and materially assisted the development of backward crops. At this period prospects justified the expectation of a crop of large proportions. Grass hoppers caused severe damage in the southwest corner of Saskatchewan and adjacent Alberta areas, but elsewhere losses were light. The toll from rust this year proved negligible. Light to heavy hail losses occurred in several localities. Harvesting of a satisfactory beet crop is in progress in Alberta, with production estimated at 300,000 tons. A slight increase over that of last year. Digging of sugar beets is under way in Manitoba and production is estimated at approximately 120,000 tons. Rainfall on the whole since September 1st has been moderately heavy.

EMERGENCY CALL!

From the shores of our Motherland comes an appeal for help which no true Canadian can fail to heed. While we live in comfort, death drops on that embattled island. The need for Red Cross assistance is urgent. Our sons and brothers are over there. On land, at sea, in the air, they face death daily. We must be prepared to help them when they are sick or wounded.

Red Cross help is needed on behalf of soldier and civilian alike. Hospitals and hospital equipment, surgical supplies and dressings, ambulances and X-Ray equipment will be needed. Overnight the need may become so urgent that lives may be sacrificed if help cannot be sent at once.

Never before has there been so great a need for Red Cross assistance. This challenge to humanity must be answered. Give to the Red Cross. Give to the utmost NOW!

WEEKLY LETTER

A FEW POINTERS TO LIVE STOCK GROWERS

Stockyards throughout the country are scenes of great activity these days with a good many animals going up and down the loading chutes. It is important to buyers and sellers alike that animals arrive at their destination in the best possible condition but unfortunately losses due to high shrinkage, injury and deaths are all too prevalent. If a few simple precautions are taken, most of the losses can be prevented.

Before shipping, feeds of a non-laxative nature such as good quality timothy or prairie hay should be fed. Animals should be fed and watered regularly and allowed their normal fill right up until shipping time. The practice of trying to obtain an abnormally large fill usually leads to digestive disturbances resulting in loss of weight.

The most common causes of shipping losses are bruising due to horns, rough handling and improper fitting of cars. Any farmer that does not dehorn his cattle is subject to a non-shrinkage, based on fed and alt of a dollar a head so that watered weights, of about 3 pc he has every reason to see that this important operation is performed on all commercial cattle. Cars of mixed stock should always be provided with proper partitions and care taken to see that no nails or sharp corners are left as possible sources of injury.

Overloading of cars may lead to severe losses especially in stormy weather. Standard stock cars, which are 36 feet long and 8 feet wide, will accommodate approximately the following numbers of the various classes of stock: 25 head of fat cattle at 1,000 pounds, 85 to 100 ewes, 105 lambs at 85 pounds and 70 to 85 hogs at 200 lbs.

The freight rate on grade or commercial animals is charged on a hundred weight basis on a stated minimum for each class of stock so that underloading is uneconomical but the above figures should not be greatly exceeded under any circumstances. Overcrowding is especially dangerous in the case of hogs. Purebred animals for which the pedigree certificate is submitted, may be shipped at half the regular rate. Shrinkage in transit varies widely and has often led to misunderstanding and loss to shipper. Hogs will show a net loss of 3 pc.

after a journey of 24 to 36 hours. Lambs, because they respond less to feeding at the stockyards, will shrink anywhere from 4 to as high as 8 pc for the same period. Well finished grain fed cattle will shrink from 3 to 5 pc in a 24 to 36 hour trip but old thin and grass fattened cattle will shrink considerably more. With all classes of stock, a proportionately higher shrink occurs during the first 24 hours than during further travelling.

The doctor of a country village had two children who were acknowledged as being the prettiest little girls in the district.

While the two children were out walking one day, they happened to pass two small boys; one lived in the village and the other was a visitor.

"I say," said the latter, "who are those little girls?"

"They are the doctor's children," replied the village boy. "He always keeps the best for himself."

Visitor: "And what is little Jackie going to be when he grows up?"

Mother (exasperated): "I'm not sure, but from the looks of the wallpaper and everything else he touches, I think he'll be a fingerprint expert."

"HUMANITY HAS STRUCK ITS TENTS"

The grain trade of Western Canada is quite upset over an advertisement under the heading "Humanity Has Struck Its Tents," published by the Wheat Pools of Western Canada. The Financial Post of Toronto takes up the cudgels for the trade and cries "shame" on the Pools for daring to publish such an advertisement.

In order to revive the memories of readers the advertisement is herewith reprinted.

"Humanity has struck its tents." At one stroke the thousand-year-old British Constitution was abolished by the British House of Commons.

"It was done by the passage of an act that could be placed on a sheet of notepaper.

"In a few hours the capitalistic organization of society was undermined.

"Profit as a motive in human association was suspended.

"Labor relinquished cherished rights and privileges as its contribution.

"This momentous change heralds the passing of an era.

"Humanity has once again struck its tents and is on the march.

"Join the trend and aid in placing the co-operative movement strongly in the vanguard of a new hope."

The Financial Post says that the changes put into effect by democracies in wartime are temporary and that the end of the war will see a return to conditions in trade and commerce which prevailed heretofore. In this assertion we believe The Post is doing some "wishful thinking."

The British prime minister Winston Churchill said in his Easter speech:

"The perplexities and tribulations of our age may well be the birth throes of a new harmony.

"Our institutions are capable of changing with time and circumstances."

The people in democracies will not be content to go back to the system which provides such inequities in the distribution of wealth.

The farmer will not be satisfied with a system wherein the very productiveness is used as a club to beat down prices and ruin them, while at the same time millions go hungry.

The Financial Post is like the Bourbons. It learns nothing and forgets nothing. But this time it is apt to be unpleasantly surprised.

Incidentally, The Financial Post has been the chief antagonist of the Wheat Pools and of every farm movement in Western Canada. It has fought such movements unmercifully, but ineffectually. It is the spokesman for Canada's financial hierarchy, who may find some corollary in its utterances. But it is about the most innocuous publication in the entire Dominion in so far as effecting the course of Canada or the

GIRLS IN HOME SERVICE
SCHOOL

The Dominion Provincial Youth Training Home Service School in Calgary offers this splendid opportunity.

The household worker today who has specialized training has no difficulty in getting good position with good wages. Those eligible for training are girls between the ages of sixteen and thirty years who live in urban centres.

Trainees live in residence in happy homelike surroundings. The course takes three months to complete and is entirely free to suitable applicants.

Two uniforms and textbooks are supplied and transportation is sent to those entering school.

Recreational activities are not forgotten. Classes in swimming and physical training are given each week.

Curriculum covers every phase of household work. Staff consists of trained graduate instructors.

Further information may be obtained from the school 707 13th Ave. West, Calgary.
